NOTES FROM THE CHAIR
Norah Duncan IV

100 Years: 1918-2018

In the fall of 1918, Holst’s The Planets, Op. 32 and Stravinsky’s L’Historie du soldat received their first performance. Rosa Ponselle performed the role of Leonora in Verdi’s La Forza del Destino at the Metropolitan Opera opposite Enrico Caruso. The most prolific songwriter was Irving Berlin, who wrote several songs about the war and soldiers coming home. The Original Dixieland Jazz Band’s “Tiger Rag” and Arthur Fields “Oh How I Hate To Get Up In The Morning,” were the most popular songs on the radio. Composer and conductor Leonard Bernstein, jazz singer Joe Williams, blues guitarist Elmer Jones and, actress and singer Pearl Bailey were born during this year. Locally, John Philip Sousa led his marching band during a Liberty Loans rally in Detroit, and the main branch of the Detroit Public Library, just a couple of blocks from Old Main, was under construction.

Perhaps most important for us was the establishment of our music department 100 years ago this fall. A 100th birthday or anniversary is a big deal, so do not miss the celebration. For the Department of Music, it will be yearlong, starting this fall and ending next fall. This is an opportunity to see how the celebrated traditions continue today, to attend several of our celebration events, and to demonstrate your belief in the value of music in society by attending concerts and by pledging your financial support.

Our major events and concerts this year will have a centennial flair, either featuring works or performances by alumni, faculty or students. Consult the Fall Calendar of Events for a full listing of performances.

In the last 20 years, Wayne State University has seen a decline in State funding. This trend, unfortunately, will probably continue in the foreseeable future. Consequently, in order to provide the same level of services, we have to depend on the monetary gifts of our alumni and friends. The Department of Music has created a “Centennial Club,” consisting of alumni and friends willing to support four key departmental initiatives. The goal, which we hope to surpass, is to raise $100,000; 100 individuals who will contribute $1000 each. The four initiatives are Student Travel, Scholarships, CAA Organ Fund, and Research and Development.

CAA ORGAN FUND
The Community Arts Auditorium organ, a three-manual Aeolian Skinner, sits quietly in the auditorium and is in need of re-leathering and a new console. The cost of this project exceeds $90,000. Graduates from the organ program fill many prestigious posts throughout Metropolitan Detroit and beyond.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT
This fund supports academic programs, including the cost for equipment purchases, software, concert promotion, program design and printing, publicity, recruitment activities and departmental branding and guest artists. Additionally, it provides funding for faculty travel to conferences around the world.

Throughout its first 100 years, the Department of Music has successfully prepared young musicians for fulfilling careers in the music profession. They have lived through times of tremendous growth in science, technology and communication, but also through a century at times ravished by war and violence, and assaults on human dignity. Music, however, has been that response. In the words of Leonard Bernstein, “This [Music] will be our reply to violence; to make music more intensely, more beautifully, more decisive than ever before.” Through good times and bad, our music department has met students, like Bernstein, who: “… can’t live one day without hearing music, playing it, studying it, or thinking about.” Neither should the world.

Sincerely,
Norah Duncan IV

STUDENT TRAVEL
One of the fondest memories for many of our alumni is student travel. Past events include the Men’s Glee Club and Chamber Singers competitions and international tours, Summer Opera internship opportunities for vocal performance students, and Jazz Band performances in Europe, South America and Italy. Our Concert Chorale and Women’s Chorale performed in Toronto, Canada during the Winter 2018 and just this past Summer, the WSU Camerata performed several concerts throughout Italy.

SCHOLARSHIPS
The escalating cost of higher education is making it impossible for students to afford post-secondary education. The average yearly cost is about $19,000 for a music major, and this does not include room and board. Any assistance in this area will lessen the dependency on costly student loans.

The CENTENNIAL Campaign

The Centennial Campaign, a goal to raise $100,000 during our centennial year, is an effort to step boldly into the future of the Department of Music at Wayne State—a true cornerstone of music and higher education in Detroit and beyond. Your contribution will enable the department to maintain and enhance the quality of our programs and build on its reputation as a premier training ground for future musicians, scholars, composers and music educators.

MAKE AN IMPACT BY SUPPORTING

Each contribution to the Centennial Campaign is recognized with a membership in Friends of Music—a benefit that includes a membership card that provides free admission for you and a guest(s) to all Department of Music on-campus concerts and half-off Mondays at the Max performances at the Max M. & Marjorie S. Fisher Music Center for one academic year.

Donations above $25 are tax deductible and will be receipted by the WSU Office of Development. Additionally, any donation over $1,000 will include an engraved name-plate to be placed on the arm of a chair in Schaver Music Recital Hall.

To join Friends of Music and to contribute to the Centennial Campaign, go to giving.wayne.edu/donate/cfpca and designate Friends of Music in the drop down menu. Additionally, a Friends of Music pdf. registration form can be found at music.wayne.edu. We thank you in advance for your generous gift and continued support of the Department of Music.
FACULTY UPDATES:

Jerry Custer, a member of the composition and theory faculty, had American and International premiers of his original compositions this year. In addition, Hinshaw Music will be publishing a work commissioned and premiered by the Interlochen Arts Academy Choir, “A Cradle Carol,” for mixed voices and concert wind ensemble.

Jonathan Lasch, lecturer of voice, was featured in a performance of Laura Kaminsky’s chamber opera, “As One”, a coming of age story about a transgender woman, portrayed by two singers. He also was a featured performer during the 2018 Great Lakes Chamber Music Festival performing the role of Sam in Trouble in Tahiti.

Music History Professor, Eldonna May, was honored with the acceptance of her article, “Strategies for Achieving ICT Literacy & Proficiency in the Rural Primary and Secondary Schools in Ghana” Volume 5, Issue 2 of Journal of Education & Social Sciences.

Laura Roelofs, associate professor of violin, had the CD release of a world premiere recording, on the Toccata Classics label, of the Trio for Violin, Cello and Piano by Richard Stohr.

Assistant Professor of Music Technology, Joo Won Park, released a full-length duo album featuring his original electronic music in November 2017 along with being presented at 5 peer-reviewed conferences. Additionally, Dr. Park is this year’s recipient of the Research Enhancement Program in the Arts and Humanities. With this award, Dr. Park will create three pieces for large-scale electronic ensembles. The pieces will be premiered by Electronic Music Ensemble of Wayne State (EMEWS).

Karl Pituch, a member of the Wayne State brass faculty and Detroit Symphony Orchestra principal horn, released a duo horn album, A Pair of Aces along with Denise Tryon, a Peabody Conservatory faculty artist. This album contains music of Telemann, Gunther Schuller, Bernhard Heiden, Alan Civil, Kerry Turner and Lowell Shaw. The CD was fortunate to receive the Silver Medal Award from Global Music Awards!

Matthew Younglove’s highlights this year include performing the American premiere of Franco Donatoni’s Rasch II for Saxophone Quartet, Piano, and Percussion while in residence at the University of Mississippi in November 2017. Matthew also performed a solo program at the World Saxophone Congress in Zabreb, Coatia this summer.

ALUMNI ACHIEVEMENT

Michael Krajewski was the recipient of the CFPCA’s 2018 Career Achievement Award in the Field of Music. Michael is a much sought-after conductor of symphonic pops, known for his entertaining programs and clever humor. Krajewski is the Music Director of The Philly Pops and Principal Pops Conductor of the Atlanta and Jacksonville Symphonies. He previously served as Principal Pops Conductor of the Houston Symphony for 16 seasons and has performed with numerous orchestras around the world including the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the San Francisco Symphony and the Hong Kong Philharmonic just to name a few.

WSU Alumni Named 2018 Kresge Artist Fellows

This summer, Kresge Arts in Detroit — a prestigious and competitive arts fellowship program created by the Kresge Foundation — announced its 2018 class of Artist Fellows. The Department of Music is proud to recognized two alumni, Alex Way and Ahya Simone, who were both chosen as 2018 Artist Fellows. This year the award saw 450 applicants of which 16 Artists Fellows were chosen. Ms. Way, a Detroit-based R&B singer, songwriter, and violinist earned her Bachelor of Arts in Music degree studying under Hai Xin Wu of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Ms. Simone, a Detroit-area harpist and interdisciplinary artist, earned her Bachelor of Music degree in Harp Performance, studying under renowned harpist Patricia Terry-Ross, who herself was the winner of the 2017 Kresge Eminent Artist Award.
NEW FACES

Alex Sutton
Alex Sutton is Director of Choral Activities at Wayne State University, where he conducts and administers a program of four ensembles and teaches graduate conducting. He previously served as Associate Director of Choirs at the University of West Georgia, where he conducted the Concert Choir and taught aural skills, music appreciation, and secondary choral methods. While a doctoral teaching assistant at the University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music, Sutton conducted the UC Women’s Chorus, taught music education and conducting courses, and managed the University Choruses’ program of campus ensembles. Sutton studied conducting and music education at the University of Cincinnati and the University of Michigan.

Caitlin Lynch
Caitlin Lynch joins the WSU Department of Music Applied Faculty as an instructor in the voice area. Declared “luminous” by the New York Times and “eloquent” by the Wall Street Journal, Ms. Lynch is a sought-after soprano having had recent featured engagements with precious ensembles and opera houses including the Metropolitan Opera, Palm Beach Opera, Michigan Opera Theatre, Utah Opera and Seattle Opera. On the concert stage, she has joined the St. Louis Symphony for Mozart’s Requiem, the Seattle Symphony for Beethoven’s 9th Symphony, the Omaha Symphony Dvořák’s Stabat Mater and the Calvin Oratorio Society for Händel’s Messiah. Dvorák’s Stabat Mater and the Calvin Oratorio Society for Händel’s Messiah. Dvorák’s Stabat Mater and the Calvin

Jeremy Peters
Jeremy Peters is a Lecturer in Music Business in the Department of Music at Wayne State University and a co-founder of Quite Scientific Records, while maintaining an active teaching, performing, researching, and publishing practice. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of the Arts and was the Director of Music Publishing for Ghostly International, having built the division at the company. Jeremy has previously held lecturing positions for the University of Michigan Law School and School of Music, Theatre, and Dance’s Department of Entrepreneurship and Leadership, teaching coursework on copyright, problem solving, entrepreneurship, and the music industry. Jeremy has an MBA with a concentration in Strategy from the University of Cambridge Judge Business School and is a life-member of Clare Hall, where he was recipient of the Culture, Arts, and Media, Boak Research, Clare Hall and Mellon Bursaries to support his study of the intersection of culture and business practice. He holds an undergraduate degree in Music and Political Science from the University of Michigan’s College of Literature, Science and the Arts.

Una O’Riordan
Una O’Riordan joins the Department of Music Applied Faculty as a cello instructor in the string area. Ms. O’Riordan was appointed to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 2007 and enjoys a versatile career as an orchestral and chamber musician, new music advocate, teacher and clinician. An advocate for contemporary classical music, Úna has been a member of the New Music Detroit (NMD) ensemble since 2008, and received the 2014 Kresge Artist Fellowship in recognition of the ensemble’s commitment to artistic excellence. As an educator, she has taught and performed at the Zodiac Festival & Academy in Valdeblore, France, and the Fresh Inc Festival for contemporary music performance and composition in Racine, Wisconsin. Since 2013 she has taught and performed at the American Institute for Musical Studies (AIMS) in Graz, Austria. Úna is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, where she received a Bachelor of Music with Distinction and was named an Arts Leadership Scholar. She received her Master of Music degree from Northwestern University’s Bienen School of Music.

Students of Note

Amanda Beaune, a 2nd year violin performance major, was accepted to the prestigious Bowdoin International Summer Music Festival in Brunswick, ME. Additionally, Amanda attended the Summer Violin Institute at the Bienen School of Music in Chicago, Il.

Andrew Jarema, a graduate student in Theory and Composition, presented his project Non-Linear Narratives, Control, and Agency: Video Games and Andrew Norman’s Play at the 2018 University of Toronto Graduate Student Music Conference in March. Andy also was selected to be a part of the Artist-in-Residence program at Great Smoky Mountains National Park. He spent the month of August living in the park embarking on creative music recording projects capturing nature sounds with recording devices as well as giving public lectures and leading outreach events in the park.

In June 2018 Vocal Performance Major, Brianna Wetherington, was chosen as the first recipient of the David DiChiera Scholarship Award by an adjudicating panel which included David DiChiera himself. Additionally, Brianna traveled to Germany during the month of August to participate in the Berlin Opera Academy performing in L’incoronazione di Poppea by Monteverdi.

Chantel Woodard, a recent Master of Music in Vocal Performance graduate, took first place in the National Associate of Teachers of Singing (NATS) district competition in the Advanced College of Teachers of Singing (NATS) district competition in the Advanced College Women Division in November 2017. During her time here at Wayne State, Chantel had many notable performances including winning the 2017 Department of Music Concerto Competition, a master class with visiting artist Russell Thomas and as a chorister with the Michigan Opera Theatre.

The WSU Camerata embarked on a 9-day concert tour of Italy this past summer. The Camerata delighted audiences with performance engagements in Venice, Florence and Rome. The ensemble was led by Associate Professor, Doug Bianchi and student conductors Benjamin Moore and Ian Nichols.
In cooperation with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Department of Music is pleased to announce our 2018-2019 season of “Mondays at The Max with Wayne State”, a concert series featuring premier WSU student ensembles at the Max M. & Marjorie S. Fisher Music Center.

All concerts begin at 7:30 p.m. in The Cube at the Max M. Fisher Music Center, 3711 Woodward Avenue, Detroit. Tickets are $15 for adults and $10 for students. Friends of Music cardholders, DSO Civic Youth Ensemble families and WSU students (with OneCard) receive a 50% discount.
